

From: judson
To: micro
Date: 11/27/01 11:13am
Subject: please

The Computer and Communications Industry Association, for one, says that acceptance of Microsoft's $1 billion offer would be tantamount to judicially sanctioned predatory pricing.

Microsoft's proposed settlement for more than 100 outstanding private antitrust cases against it would inflict "great harm" upon the technology markets, the CCIA said in a letter to the judge overseeing the case. The CCIA was responding to Microsoft's offer to provide $1 billion worth of hardware, software and training to more than 12,500 schools serving nearly 7 million children.

--

Judson Frondorf